Who has access to your personal data?

Enza Zaden may share your personal data with the following parties and individuals in the following circumstances:

- Enza Zaden may share your personal data with data processors, i.e. parties processing personal data on our behalf. In such cases, these other third parties may only use your personal data for the purposes described above and only in accordance with our instructions;
- Enza Zaden's employees may have access to the personal data, for example employees working at the customer services, sales, legal, logistics and production departments. Access will be granted only if necessary for the purposes described above and only if the employee is bound by an obligation of confidentiality;
- Enza Zaden may share your personal data if this is necessary to pursue the purposes set out above, for example to transport companies on an order by order base, to bureaus of investigation for credit safe purposes and Know your customer obligations, to patent offices for IP registration;
- Enza Zaden may share your personal data if required to do so by law or court order, for example with law enforcement agencies or other governmental agencies.

How long will Enza Zaden process your personal data?

Unless a specific retention period is mandated or permitted under applicable law, for example under fiscal law, Enza Zaden will only retain your personal information for the duration of time necessary to fulfill the purposes described in this Privacy Statement. This means that, in some cases, we may retain your personal information for a period of time following termination of your relationship with Enza Zaden.

As a rule we will retain customer data for as long as needed to comply with applicable (tax) law and company accounting purposes, however data will be cleared where possible during this retention period.

However, if special situations arise, for example in the event of a dispute or claim, we may secure evidence and store data for a longer period.

Our retention policies reflect applicable local statute of limitation periods and national statutory obligations of Enza Zaden. If you wish to have more information about Enza Zaden's retention policy applicable to your data, please contact privacy@enzazaden.nl.

What measures does Enza Zaden take to protect your personal data?

Enza Zaden has taken appropriate technical and organizational measures to protect your personal data against accidental or unlawful processing, including by ensuring that:

- your personal data is protected against unauthorized access;
- the confidentiality of your personal data is assured;
- the integrity and availability of your personal data will be maintained;
- personnel are trained in information security requirements;
- actual or suspected data breaches are reported in accordance with applicable law.

If you wish to have more information about the protection of your personal data please contact our privacy officer at privacy@enzazaden.nl.

Where does Enza Zaden store or transfer your personal data?

As a rule your personal data are stored on servers located in the European Union. However, due to the nature of our business and the services to our clients, Enza Zaden may transfer information, including limited personal data of Business Relations to locations outside the European Union. Specifically, your data may be transferred to the countries where our business, clients and suppliers are located.

In any case where we transfer personal data outside the European Union, Enza Zaden shall ensure that such a transfer is subject to appropriate safeguards. In most cases, such transfer will be governed by a contract based on the model contractual clauses for data transfer approved by the European Commission.

If you wish to have more information about the transfer of your personal data to a country outside the EU and wish to obtain details about the legal basis for such transfer, please contact our privacy officer - privacy@enzazaden.nl.

What rights can you exercise in relation to your personal data?

You can exercise a number of rights in relation to your personal data, which are explained below. In each case, please use the contact details below if you would like to exercise any of your rights. Note that in many cases, your rights are not absolute and we may not be required to comply with your request.

Right of access

You are entitled to a copy of the personal information we hold about you and to learn details about how we use it. Your personal data will usually be provided to you digitally.

Right to rectification

We take reasonable steps to ensure that the information we hold about you is accurate and complete. However, if you do not believe this is the case, you can ask us to update or amend it.

Right to erasure

In certain circumstances, you have the right to ask us to erase your personal information, for example where the personal information we collected is no longer necessary for the original purpose or where you withdraw your consent. However, this will need to be balanced against other factors. For example, we may not be able to comply with your request due to certain legal or regulatory obligations.

Right to restriction of processing

In certain circumstances, you are entitled to ask us to (temporarily) stop using your personal information, for example where you think that the personal information we hold about you may be inaccurate or where you think that we no longer need to use your personal information.

Right to data portability

In certain circumstances, you have the right to ask that we transfer personal information that you have provided to us to a third party of your choice.

Right to object

You have the right to object to processing which is based on our legitimate interests. Unless we have a compelling legitimate ground for the processing, we will no longer process the personal data on that basis when you file an objection. Note however, that we may not be able to provide certain services or benefits if we are unable to process the necessary personal data for that purpose.

Rights relating to automated decision-making

You have the right not to be subjected to automated decision-making, including profiling, which produces legal effect for you or has a similar significant effect. Enza Zaden does not apply automated decision-making.

Right to withdraw consent

We may ask for your consent to process your personal data in specific cases. When we do this, you have the right to withdraw your consent at any time. Enza Zaden will stop the further processing from the moment of withdrawal of your consent. However, this does not affect the lawfulness of the processing before consent was withdrawn.

What if I have other questions or complaints?

Questions or complaints regarding the processing of your personal information should be directed to the privacy officer of Enza Zaden via privacy@enzazaden.nl.

You also have the right to lodge a complaint with the local data protection authority in the jurisdiction where your company is established, where you work, where you live or where an alleged infringement takes place. You can find a listing of the EU Data Protection Authorities (“DPAs”) at the website of the European Commission. Nevertheless, we encourage you to express any concerns or complaints through our Privacy Officer first.

Updates to this Privacy Statement

Enza Zaden may update this Privacy Statement from time to time and in case an amendment will have serious impact on Business Relations, Enza Zaden will actively inform them about such amendment. Enza Zaden will publish an up-to-date Privacy Statement on the website www.enzazaden.nl at all times, indicating the latest amendments including a time stamp.
